LITL WEBBOOK

$399
lil.com

Boston-based LITL has developed a streamlined way to navigate the Web without dealing with all the bells, whistles, and extemporaneous details of a conventional laptop (#firstworld-pains). The easel format, which hides the keyboard and props the screen at an angle, is convenient for viewing in limited-space situations. The LITL Webbook has a 178-degree viewing cone, compared to 60 degrees for the typical laptop. Equipped with a 300k pixel built-in camera, scroll wheel for easy navigation, and HDMI connection for big-screen TVs, LITL Webbook is kind of a big deal ... in a small package.

TAGG PET TRACKER

$99.95
ipettracker.com

Whether your pet's exploring prowess resembles Magellan or Mr. McGoo, you can rest easier the next time your furry friend happens to wander off. Never post another "Missing: Reward" flyer in your neighborhood, relying on the kindness of strangers to locate your wayward friend. The Tagg GPS tracker attaches to his existing collar and can be worn at all times - even in water. To locate your pet, simply log in to a computer or smartphone, or download the Tagg app and directions to your pet will be provided.

BUYING TIME

ADVANCED MOVEMENTS

When cutting-edge technology successfully teams with out-of-the-box thinking, the results can be astonishingly intriguing. Such is the case with the four watches we present, each innovative in its own way. Whether creating chaos out of time or measuring its passage by the millennium, these instruments combine functionality, style, and quality to make their own unique statement.

HARRY WINSTON OPUS ELEVEN

Price: $229,000

Featuring three overlapping cylinders, the uniqueness of this complex instrument is the “exploding” hour numeral that reassembles as the new hour, where it remains until the next disintegration. In lieu of a hand, 24 placards revolve and rotate on a system of bevel gears that change the axis of placard rotation. The result: utter momentary chaos followed by calm. This watch is made up of 566 components (including 155 jewels), housed in an 18-carat white gold traditional finish. The limited series contains only 111 pieces.

URWERK UR-1001 ZEIT DEVICE ÜBER COMPLICATION POCKET WATCH

Price: $450,000

Note: Limited edition of eight pieces, available at Westime in Los Angeles and Beverly Hills

In a grand gesture to immediate and immortal time, the UR-1001 reports in seconds, minutes, hours, day/night, month, years, centuries, and millennia. Housed in semi-matte black treated steel with titanium elements, the backside of this instrument has a protective cover that hides the longer timescale indications, ranging from the five-year “oil change” indicator (alerting the user it’s time for service) to a 100-year, and even 1,000-year indicator.
